

Culinary Union Training Center

The Las Vegas hotels and the Culinary Union established a Training Center to serve the future employment needs of the hotel industry and the membership through education and job skill training.

The Culinary Union Training Center offers classes for persons who are looking to work in a hotel but do not have the required job skills or work experience. Graduation from a beginning job skill class is given credit by the Culinary Union and the hotels as acceptable work experience.

Upgrade classes in higher rated classifications are available for persons seeking advanced training to prepare for job bidding and promotion. An example of this would be a cook's helper taking a fry cook class.

Classes in English as a Second Language are offered as an additional service to members.

The Training Center is a Union benefit and your membership or registration is the only requirement for enrollment in a class. There are no costs or fees for the classes.
